

WE NOMINATE

Nils Erik Lindenblad, recent recipient of the David Sarnoff Outstanding Achievement Award in Science and a Fellow of the RCA Laboratories Technical Staff, who is a distinguished representative of Princeton's post-World War II "generation" of industrial research scientists. As Princeton, in the words of a nationally circulated magazine, has sought to "maintain its bucolic environment" and "has traditionally resisted inroads by industry," scientists like the 63-year old Lindenblad—a Princetonian since 1950—have strengthened the area's traditions and have been instrumental in attracting the nation's heaviest concentration of facilities for pure research.

The Swedish-born Lindenblad, one of the 12 founders of Princeton's growing Calvary Baptist Church and the holder of some 250 issued patents, has over the decades proved his versatility as a scientist, engineer and inventor. Several years ago, after he had won international recognition for his contributions in microwave communications and radar, he was selected to head an entirely new RCA research activity—the development of an electronic cooling technique which would make possible cooling and refrigerating systems with no moving parts.

In an area completely foreign to any of his previous experience, and with little precedent to go on, Lindenblad, an RCA staff member for the past 39 years, made basic studies of several possible approaches and determined that the most promising was the thermoelectric effect, regarded until that time only as an interesting phenomenon involving the flow of current through dissimilar materials. He experimented with various improved materials, putting together thermoelectric elements that led to the construction of the world's first full-size electronic refrigerator and subsequently to a model of an electronic air-conditioning system.

Responsible for a number of major advances in antenna theory and application, including the first television antennas employed on Manhattan's Empire State Building, Lindenblad performed outstanding service during World War II as an expert consultant to the Secretary of War. Among his worries were the establishment and maintenance of effective radio communications over the North Atlantic air-ferry route and also in the rugged Alaskan sector. To him belongs credit for perfecting the so-called slot-antenna for aircraft, currently used on supersonic planes to preserve aerodynamic efficiency with no loss in antenna efficiency.

As a young man in Sweden Lindenblad, a naturalized American citizen since the summer of 1927, had been a fervent admirer of the great Italian scientist, Guglielmo Marconi, father of wireless telegraphy—a factor that helped lead Lindenblad into the communications field. Shortly after Lindenblad had joined then newly-formed RCA at Rocky Point and Riverhead, Long Island, the two met, when Marconi visited RCA to inspect progress being made in transmitter and antenna projects. Lindenblad now enjoys reminiscing about how he and Marconi discussed antennas, and, without benefit of paper far calculations, sat together and drew diagrams on the Long Island sand.

For the length and endurance of his remarkable inventive genius; for his contributions to the continuing forward movement of the increasingly important electronics industry; for his role in the development of modern-day Princeton; he is our nominee for

COMMUTERS' FLIGHT

Two Meetings in One. Tuesday evening's four-hour session of Mayor and Council, expiring session before midnight, was played in halves. The opening two-hour canto, culminated by Council's unanimous decision to table for further study the proposal "to meter the railroad station," was devoted to a series of five public hearings, while the finale produced major news in the form of key appointments.

Of front-rank importance was Mayor Male's announcement of the successor to retiring Borough Engineer I. Russell Riker, saluted by the Mayor as "one of the greatest careers men this Borough will ever have." Riker will bow out April 1 and a fortnight later will be replaced by Arthur T. Brokaw, 38-year old engineer of East Orange, a city numbering some 86,000 persons.

A Princeton University alumnus (1938-1942) and a veteran of World War II, the engineer-designate was trained at the Newark College of Engineering and the University of California, taking his master of science in sanitary engineering at the latter in 1952. For the past five years he has been administering a $1,000,000 engineering budget and a department of 125 employees.

Brokaw, a native of Newark and the son of a New Jersey municipal engineer, has been a member of the East Orange Planning Board and has specialized in public works and public services, engineering design and construction, sanitary engineering and traffic engineering. He is president-elect of the Metropolitan Chapter of the American Public Works Association.

Back to Commuting. Mayor Male's charted explanation of the Borough's operating budget, which evolved exactly one question from a gathering of some 125 persons, was the quiet before the storm induced by the proposal to install 71 day-long parking meters (25¢ per day) on the McCar-ter Theatre side of University Place, across from the Pennsylvania Railroad Station.

By the time the verbiage had settled, and Council had elected to study all possibilities in what one observer later termed "this irreconcilable conflict between commuters and quarter-grabbing meters," 27 commuters (several of whom had commuted to Borough Hall from Hopewell Township and Pennington) had eloquently expressed their opposition to a measure discriminat- ing against Princeton commuters.

The "unjustified tax aspects" of the Borough's projected plan were castigated by a half-dozen speakers, including the energetic co-chairmen of the newly constituted Committee Against Discriminatory Taxation Through Use of Parking Meters, H. Gilbert Nicol, 106 Winant Road, and David Paro, 256 Russell Road. With one notable exception—the seasoned commuter who halfway through the hearing "faced at least three Council members of prejudice" in the matter and subsequently withdrew his remarks—the hearing proceeded calmly, and without acrimony, and set the stage for a long hard look at a long-considered area.

Among those questioning the soundness of "this meter proposition" were Mr. and Mrs. Karl D. Pettit Jr., 104 Bayard Lane; Douglas Delaney, 62 Battle Road; Evans Lawton; Nassau Estates; Mrs. Archibald M. Crossley, 21 Battle Road; William J. Boone, 108 Hun Road; Edward Conlin, Lawrenceville Road, and C. V. Kiser, 261 Hawthorne Avenue.

Other Hearings. The ordinance prescribing compulsory inoculation of dogs against rabies went into the books, following a long and lengthy dissent on the part of Rudy Ehart, 60 Murray Place, who was concerned with discrimination against properly confined dogs rather than with the mounting financial worries of commuters.

Neither an amendment in the parking ordinances, clarifying all-night parking regulations and banning parking on Bayard Lane from Hedge Road down the hill to the Borough Line, nor a measure, revising minimal and maximal salary levels for Borough employees, drew a whisper of protest.

Council Postponed. These were among the other developments of the marathon March meeting:

● Oliver V. Houghton, 117 Wilson Road, and Wilson J. Coan, 29 Chestnut Street, were appointed to the Borough Zoning Board for three-year terms expiring January 1, 1962. The former succeeds former councilman Harry A. Farr who has found it necessary to resign from the board in view of "added personal responsibilities."

● George A. Cameron, 61 Hedge Road, Treasurer of the Borough Housing Authority, has been re-appointed for a five-year term, while Mrs. Steven R. Michael, 267 Hamilton Avenue, has been appointed to the Authority filling the vacancy created by Dr. Harry W. Hazard's designation as executive director of the Authority.

heads has resulted in the final passage of an official Borough "Personnel Policy" that will serve as an administrative guide. Councilman Lester, Finance Committee Chairman, is the father of the policy.

● The appointment of Raymond Mondone as Chief of the Police Department was enthusiastically confirmed by Mayor and Council and applauded by the handful remaining following the close of the "commuters" hearing. Mondone, a 32-year veteran with the Borough, has been Acting Chief since last September.

● Rose Cottage, the historic sprawling and now-condemned neighbor of Borough Hall, will be razed in the near future. It was reported by the Trustees of the Swann Estate, who have expressed their interest in meeting in the near future with Mayor and Council to discuss future plans for the present Borough Hall.

● Princeton University's plans for its Campus Quadrangle, integrating dormitories with dining and recreational facilities, were given a "green light" from the point of view of zoning variances. Ground-breaking in early summer is anticipated.

POLITICAL MERRY-GO-ROUND

As Deadline Nears, Neither political party had announced its full slate less than 24 hours before Thursday's deadline for filing for the April 23-1 primaries. As one observer put it: "The last-minute activity on both sides is undoubtedly a combination of each party wanting to keep the opposition in the dark as long as possible and the increasingly difficult job of finding qualified candidates to serve on volunteer governments."

In the Borough, it was considered certain by members of both parties that Mayor Raymond F. Male would head the Democratic ticket in a bid for a second two-year term. But the party was adamant in refusing to name his running mates for the two council vacancies until Wednesday night's organizational meeting at the Chestnut Street firehouse.

Republican names mentioned speculatively this week included Councilman Alfred E. Sorenson, the lone incumbent available to the GOP; former candidates Arthur P. Morgan and Jack Turner, Jr.; and Albridge C. Smith, 3d. Whether one of them will be his party's choice for mayor was a development scheduled to await Thursday's petition-filing at Borough Hall.

Township Committee John S. Mount is one of the few candidates whose decision is definite. He will run again, and may have fellow incumbent James G. Campbell Jr. on the ticket with him.

Democratic plans might include the nomination of Walter James W. Foley, who was on the ballot two years ago. Uncertainty dominated the picture virtually down to the wire, with the only sure development the ability of both parties to file full slates and give Princeton the benefit of continued government by volunteers.

LIQUOR STAND CHANGED

Township Drops First Proposal. The Township Committee, ordered by the Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission to clarify an ordinance which allows consumption on licensed premises for "a reasonable time" after the closing hour, has decided to solve the dilemma by omitting all reference in the ordinance to consumption. This will bring the Township's law into line with Borough practice.

The compromise measure, introduced by Committee-man Stanley C. Smoyer, was approved on first reading and will be offered for public hearing at the Committee's next regular meeting on April 13. Gordon Griffin, the Township attorney, said the omission of any reference to consumption would remove the ABC's objection to the ordinance.

In other business, residents of Herrontown Circle were told they would have to provide adequate sewage and water supply for their area even if the Township refused to accept an in part sewer project through general assessment. According to Committee-man John S. Mount, about half of the area's 13 homes have sanitary facilities which the Board of Health has deemed unsatisfactory.

The Committee agreed to meet informally with the residents in advance of the public hearing on the problem to discuss the four alternate sewage routes which are under consideration. Residents declined to enter any petition until the question of financing is clarified. Mayor R. Kenneth Fairman said funds were available to finance the installation, but residents will be assessed for all or part of the expense on the basis of the value they receive.

Residents of Autumn Hill and Cordova Roads pointed out that their streets have still not been adequately paved by the developer, Contemporary Associates Inc. They said the situation was dangerous and asked the Committee to deny the developer an extension on his guaranty bond, which expires August 23.

"I don't think we're in too much of a mood for any extensions," Mayor Fairman replied. The Committee has requested Contemporary Associates to begin work on the improvements as soon as the spring construction season opens, Mr. Fairman added, and there has been discussion of a possible ordinance to require builders to finish all improvements before building permits are issued.

Mr. Fairman said the Committee would be glad to have one of its members accompany representatives of the Princeton Water Company to a hearing March 24 before the Division of Water Policy and Supply in Trenton. The company has requested the Division to allocate 1,000,000 gallons of water from the Delaware and Raritan Canal to Princeton.

The Committee approved the mayor's appointment of William J. P. Geddes, former Township tax collector, to replace Joseph J. Stemmle, who is retiring from the Zoning Board; and Dr. William Kleinberg, former acting health officer, to assume the Board of Health seat vacated by Stuart Robson. Both appointments take effect immediately.

A bond refund of $22,303 to Princeton University for work done on the Gray Farm was approved. Previously, $9,187 was refunded on the $36,500 bond. The Planning Board recommended an Page 4 he commented. A request for co-for motor vehicle violations. In Princeton Township, Magistrate

Louise R. Gerber imposed ten-day revocations on Andre Well, 53, 42
Fortio Lane, and Eric Ramali, 30, 228-B Marshall Street, for failure to observe "stop" signs.
Each defendant paid $5 court costs.

In Trenton, the Department of Motor Vehicles announced a 30-day revocation for Stephen K.
Bailey, 43, 106 FitzRandolph Road.
His conviction was for speeding more than 10 miles above the limit in a 50-mile zone.

Magistrate Gerber ordered Wade J. Little, 24, 58 Birch Avenue, to spend a night in jail following failure to pay a $5 fine.
The magistrate observed that "more respect for fines being paid on schedule is needed."
In other court action, John D.
Rolansky, 33, 217-A Marshall Street, was fined $25 for driving in the wrong lane, and Adrian A.
Colley, 20, Russell Road, was charged with operating a motorcycle without a license. He paid $10.

BOY HIT BY CAR
Suffers Cuts and Bruises. A 10-of Cranbury Road, Cranbury, was Princeton Hospital.

The driver of the auto was Ferdinand Marone, 20, of E.D. 1, Lincoln Highway. No charges were filed as a result of the accident.

crew, lives on Major Road in Monmouth Junction.

He was stricken as he drove away from Borough Hall after paying a parking fine. Police rushed him to the hospital.

REVENGER'S TRAGEDY

Blood, Thunder, Women, Gold. "Without women and gold there would be no damnation," says Vendice, the man whose fine Italian hand is responsible for what goes on in "The Revenger's Tragedy," current Intime production at Murray Theatre. That without doubt this is a man's play, and it is the men in the cast who make this 17th century melodrama by Cyril Tournour rip-roaring entertainment all the way. If it is blood and thunder, it is also flesh and blood, with the intellectual points concerning honor argued nicely like a debating society that create a strong effect. And strong they are. It's a fine collection of murder, violence and seduction contained in a three-act adaptation of the original five-act drama by the little-known dramatist. The Intime has transcribed it to the compact Murray stage with greatest success, and with the aid of several particularly good individual performances.

Jack Kramer, Graduate College student, displays a Venetian elegance of manner and a style of line delivery made for the part of Vendice whose ultimate success boomerangs. It's a delight to see an actor who keeps his elbows out and whose gestures mean something.

Robert Wren in the part of Lussurios, a fine figure of an Italian nobleman with handsome clothes and a shabby soul, handles well a role that could easily reap unwanted snickers from a modern audience. Emery Battis, borrowed from the English Department at Rutgers, brings maturity and a sense of ease to the production, a welcome quality in any amateur, particularly a young, amateur group.

The three women in the cast are all competent, veteran actresses and make good use of the parts, some little more than vignettes, allotted to them. At least there would be neither subject nor play without them. They are Nan Rickert, Kathy Kelly and Shirley Kaufman.

AT PLAYHOUSE: Tony Curtis is featured in "The Perfect Furlough" at the Playhouse through Saturday.

The set makes use of an inner stage, an extended apron and a raised throne room in good Shakespearean tradition. There may be some slight quarrel with the lighting, if only in the use of blackouts. A blackout in a small theatre can be distressing to an audience which must sit in the dark wondering how the cast will manage exits up two steep flights of steps.

Well staged by David Sawyer and stylishly costumed by Margaret Williamson, this Intime offering, which runs through Saturday, has elicited from Prof. Willard Thorp of the University faculty the unvarnished statement, "I'll take an oath that I have never seen a better Intime production of so difficult a play." For certain the audience has a good time.

ENGAGEMENT CANCELLED
By Kingston Trio. Because of the serious illness of one of its members, the Kingston Trio cancelled its appearance Saturday in Alexander Hall that morning. The group was also scheduled to sing at Yale that afternoon.
Dana Productions, sponsors of the engagement, hopes to bring the group back this spring. Refunds for the cancelled concert may be obtained at 38 Campbell Hall. Playing for the Junior Prom gathering Saturday were the Dukes of Dixieland, brought in at the last minute by the Dana group.

Sandburg Sold Out. The first Princeton appearance of the poet, Carl Sandburg, has been completely sold out, and there will be no standing room available Wednesday, March 25, in Alexander Hall. Dana Productions reminds the audience that seats are unreserved.

TWO ONE-ACTERS READY
Players Offer Them Sunday. A pair of one-act plays which were part of the curriculum in their Directors' Workshop will be given Sunday at 8:15 p.m. by the Community Players on their Alexander Street stage.

Helen Stokes will direct "Trifles," a murder mystery, while "Riders to the Sea," an Irish drama, will be presented under the guidance of Nancy Haughton. Cast members for the first production are Reed Armstrong, Helen Ellis, William Behrle, Michael Andrews and Jane Andrews. Appearing in the second play are Carol Bannard, Frances Keene, Tirza Berthoff and Thomas Barry.

VIOLINIST HEARD

Spivakovsky in Concert. Playing the final concert in the University Series I, Tossy Spivakovsky gave Princeton music-lovers Monday night an uncompromising program that made demands upon soloist and audience alike. By starting the evening with the Mozart Adagio in E. K. 261, Mr. Spivakovsky proved, at the outset that he is not dependent upon pyrotechnical to keep his line on a first rate violinist. His line was clear and sustained, his tone deep and full, almost cello-like at times.

The Cadenza to the Adagio was composed by the violinist himself and although it seemed romantic for Mozart, it was in harmony with the mood of the Adagio and it exhibited Mr. Spivakovsky's skill without exhibitionism. Bach's Peritta in D minor for solo violin followed the Mozart. It is a tribute to Mr. Spivakovsky's artistry that he held the attention of the audience throughout this demanding work, revealing in the difficult Chaconne his mastery of both Bach and violin.

Following the intermission, Lester Taylor, the accompanist, joined Mr. Spivakovsky in Bartok's Sonata Number Two for Violin and Piano. The long, sustained violin tones of the Molto Moderato gave Mr. Taylor a background for some typical Bartok piano gymnastics which he executed with skill. Although the work is a Sonata, it is not easy for a listener to follow. Mr. Spivakovsky apparently does not find it easy to follow either, because he used a score throughout.

For his final offering, the violinist chose the Brahms Sonata in D minor, Opus 108, and he played it with the warm sentimentality that the work requires, although it seemed to this listener that Mr. Spivakovsky is happier with contemporary composers.

As encores, Mr. Spivakovsky played four Rumanian dances by Bartok and the famous Paganini theme with its Roman-candle variations.

JOINT CHORAL CONCERT

With Sarah Lawrence, A joint concert of the Princeton University Glee Club and the Sarah Lawrence College Chorus will be held Friday evening at 8:30 in Alexander Hall. The program will feature selections from Mozart's opera, "Idomeneo," and an early work of Debussy.

The Sarah Lawrence group is directed by Harold Ake also director of the Inter-Racial Fellowship Chorus and the professional De-lin Chorus. The chorus has sung this year with Williams College and the University of Pennsylvania.

CONDUCTOR: Walter Nollner, conductor of the Princeton University Glee Club, will lead his group in a joint concert with the Sarah Lawrence College Chorus.

Walter Nollner, Assistant Professor of music at Princeton and director of the University's Glee Club, will also play the transcription for piano for the "La Damselle Blue" to be performed by the women's college group. This will be his first appearance in Princeton as a pianist. Compositions by Monley Brahms and Henry Purcell will be included on the program.

MUSICAL AMATEURS

To Sing Sunday, The Princeton Society of Musical Amateurs will meet Sunday afternoon at 5:15 at Miss Fine's School. The program under the direction of Prof. J. Merrill Knapp of the Department of Music of the University will be Handel's "Israel in Egypt."

Soloists for the program will be Virginia Switten, soprano; Barbara Hubish, contralto; Harry Sandstedt, tenor; and John Codelge and John Sandstedt, bass. Milton Gill will accompany at the piano.

Those persons are invited to attend. Super reservations may be made by calling Mrs. MackKenly Bryan (WA 4-0453) between 2 and 4:30 weekdays.

SONG-WRITING CONTEST

In Grade Schools, Future Cole Porters will have an opportunity to practice the art of song writing in a competition open to pupils in grades five through eight in Princeton schools. The contest is sponsored by the Music Study Group of Princeton.

Entries must be submitted by March 26 with winners to be announced after the Easter holiday. There will be first and second place awards in each grade as well as "honorable mentions." In stimulating creative musical talent, the committee asks that contestants choose a poem from a selected list, compose an appropriate melody and submit the composition to his school music teacher.

Mrs. E. G. Wever, chairman of the Music Study Group, and the following members have planned the contest: Mrs. Virginia Switten, Mrs. Bernardine Cochrane, Mrs. W. D. Hayes and Mrs. Donald Rugg. Mrs. Patricia Gill of Miss Fine's School, Mrs. Edith Jeffries of Littlebrook School, Mrs. Anna Leverenz of Nassau and Quarry Street Schools, and Mrs. Cochrane of Valley Road School are the teachers participating in the contest.

18TH CENTURY BOUQUET
New Shop Opens on Route 209 in the midst of appliance dealers and furniture stores and research activities, there is a boutique of all things in the world. It is a tiny shop called 18th Century Bou-quet, and Boutique in a kind of coveyard at 53 State Road.
The shop will serve primarily as an outlet for the floral arrangements made by three gifted arrangers who bought out the flourishing business that Mrs.
Agnes Hoke operated for many years. These three, Barbara Platten, Betty Flanders and Jane Clark, have been making the lovely 18th century arrangements and selling them to Williamsburg and to Lord and Taylor.

Now they have taken over the little shop below their manufacturing lot. Here, starting Tuesday, they will present their dried flower bouquets to anyone who wants to buy.
In addition, they will offer Hattie Carnegie jewelry, charming little summer bags for mother and daughter (the straw boxes), daughter's nesting inside mouser's) and Moyashel linen blouses and shorts in clear summer shades that match to the last dylot. (Sizes to 20).
And more—däcon and cotton shorts, skirts, custom hand bags made from fabric you bring in, monogramming, orlon sweaters trimmed by a pair of deft fingers, small antiques like Bristol vases, unusual lamps and, at the moment, a brass fender.

All this doesn't sound very 18th century (Antoinette in Bermudas?) but the focus of the Bou-quet and Boutique is on those dried flowers. Now, actually the term "dried flowers" is somewhat unfortunate. It has connotations of a dusty catall and a rusty milkweed pod.
These flowers are delicately but richly colored, dried naturally, not dyed, tinted or colored, and assembled in classic forms that bring out the colors of the flowers. The deep purple of statice, for example, the blue of larkspur, the yellows of chrysanth-mums have all been retained even though the flowers are dried.

You may buy little paper-weights with the flowers under a convex of glass (delightful tie-backs when they are framed in brass filigree), or you may choose a formal bouquet 18 inches high, done in a Franklin urn. If you don't mind...

Bull In China Shop?
It would surprise anybody, finding an elephant in the bedroom, and it threw us a little puzzle for a minute. There was also an epe in the dining room, apparently waiting for tea.
Having seen the elephant upstairs we were prepared for that fellow, yes.
The animals were in residence, or possibly just visiting, at a doll house we saw at Stuff in Nonsense. Small customers regard this toy store as their very own and some of them begin to arrange things according to their own fancy the minute they march in the door.
Stuff has, of course, some beautifully made jungle animals and an exquisite doll house, and one young visitor apparently saw reason why the animals shouldn't live it up in the house, so he invited them to come right in.
Mrs. Bercher, the "Stuff" lady, just left them there.
Some other customer will come along with a different fancy, and things will be re-arranged again.

wish, one of the experts will visit your house to see that the flowers and the colors in your living-room.
In the shop there will also be baskets of loose flowers and all the equipment needed for making arrangements, in case you want to try it yourself. Incidentally, 18th Century Bouquet makes a sentimental specialty out of preserving bridal bouquets. A bride's bouquet can be taken apart and used for paper-weight rememberances.

Look, Daddy: No Nails. At Stuff
'n Nonsense there is a construction set so magnificent that it brings a glaze to the eyes of grown men. (This glaze is also a helpful narcotic that numbs the ache of the $50 price tag.)

Made in West Germany ("Spiel Gut"), the set consists of a steam shovel that swivels on a lazy Susan base, two derricks (long and short), a vertical conveyor with about six buckets (useful for hauling up the pay dirt), a horizontal conveyor belt and all sorts of esoteric attachments that only men and little boys know about.

There is not a nail in the whole set. Dowels, all along the line.
The derricks are carved out of a single long piece of wood.
The big wooden box that holds it all, has a sliding top that works better than your cupboard doors.
An investment, that's what it is,
and beautiful to look at, even for mothers.

You will also like the Puff-Puff train, a pull job made of very heavy metal and painted red and black. It huffs and puffs by means of little bellows. Has a bell, too.

There is more of Easter at Stuff 'n Nonsense than there has been in other years. You have a wide choice ranging from a wooden pencil with a rabbit on top, to an alarming pink plastic rooster which you inflate like a child's life preserver. He squeaks.
We liked a snub-nosed black woolly lamb about a foot high.
You may prefer a pink (white) plush rabbit with a finger-puppet baby that fits into a slot in its back. Or an arrogant white plush duck 16 inches tall, with orange felt feet and bill.

Some very soft plush has been used for a chick with a stubby beak and a graceful daisy necklace. A brown rabbit looks almost real.

Smaller Easter presents include a tin duck that waddles when he's wound, a wooden egg which opens to show a circle of one-inch clowns, a nest of wooden eggs with a bunny in the last one, and baskets in all sizes and colors or even a nice natural no-color at all.

In Print. In its new, expanded quarters, the art department of the University Store has some fine new prints reproducing masters old and new.
The department is especially proud of its brush-stroke reproductions ($1.98) mostly of French Impressionists but also of Vermeer and even Leonardo. These lifelike "oils" can be stapled quickly into a natural wood frame to give you an inexpensive

News Of The Theatres

In a cavalcade of five cars and some 30 people, the Princeton Community Players took to the road on Friday Saturday. Opinion of the east and technical staff that trouping a show can be an exciting and rewarding experience. The Players presented Dylan Thomas' "Under Milkwood" at the Reed Mill in Tinton Falls, following an extremely successful run of the show at their own Playhouse.

Playing to receptive audiences at matinee and evening performances, the troupe included ten Junior Players. Only changes from the original cast were Francis Keene, pressed into last moment service and John Becker, the play's director, who assumed the role of the First Narrator.

FREDDIE AND HIS FIDDLE

Coming to McCarter, The Traveling Playhouse, nationally-known group of adult players, will bring "Freddie and His Fiddle" to McCarter Theatre next Tuesday at 3:30 p.m. The play is an original fairy-tale of a young man and a fiddle that magically plays by itself.

The performance is third in the series of entertainment presented expressly for children in the first through eighth grades by the Princeton Borough PTA Children's Entertainment Committee. This is the 27th season that the Committee has brought this entertainment to Princeton children.

Tickets are available by telephone between 9:30 and 11:30 weekdays as well as at the box-office from 1 o'clock the day of the performance. The Princeton Ballet Society will present "Hansel and Gretel" at McCarter on Thursday, May 7, as the final offering of the season. Tickets are also on sale for this date.

INFORMAL DANCE RECITAL

To Present "Toyland Fantasy," The Peggy Bayer Callaway School of Dance will present its annual dance recital with performances by pupils in ballroom, ballet, tap and boys' gymnastics. The recital to benefit the Princeton United Recording for the Blind will be held on Sunday, March 21, at 8 in the auditorium of Princeton Country Day School.

The program will present almost 100 children from 4 to 14 years of age in a variety of dances with choreography by Mrs. Callaway. The Boys' Gymnastics have been trained by Richard Swinerton and will include some members of the YMCA Junior Leader Corps.

A "preview" of the recital will be presented at "Merwick" this Thursday at 4 p.m. This is the second year that the guests at Merwick have seen the school's recital.

THE PLAYHOUSE

The Perfect Furlough (March 12-14) spends 32 minutes developing its basic, if dubious, premise: Tony Curtis is the most hysterically funny theatrical property since the departure to honest labor of Mack Sennett's bulbous waucers. Filmmakers who had the wisest satisfaction of seeing Curts in some of his earlier straight parts may be inclined to go along with this, but more impartial observers may feel that everyone concerned with "The Perfect Furlough" is trying just a mite too hard. Curtis does display a modicum of skill in running through his phrenetic part, but the hilarity he creates is unlike his earlier work with anyone's concentration on the film's scenic attractions, chief among which are Janet Leigh, Linda Cristal and Elaine Stritch.

Curtis, an Army corporal with a history of success with women, is stationed at an isolated Arctic base with 104 fellow GIs. Since it is impossible for many of the warriors to leave the base, Curtis is elected to represent the group on a perfect furlough in Paris. The improbable idea is that his kissing and telling will provide a vicarious thrill for the entire platoon. In any event, Tony arrives in the French capital, leering, and this is where the exposure is paid. CinemaScope, Eastman tinted, stereophonic fun begins. There are 27 certified laughs in this picture, according to audience tests conducted by a Pennsylvania research firm. They intend to specify whether they included the newswire in their account.

The Remarkable Mr. Penny-packer (March 15-17) is a lightweight farce, a kind of state-of-the-art "Carnegie" with Clifton Webb an unlikely but happy choice for the counterpart to Alec Guinness in the role. The standard is not construed as indicating the pictures are similar except in the fact that they both are variations on the single idea that bigamy. If the people involved are nice, can he fun. Mr. Penny-packer, heir to a colossal seasonal fortune, is forced by his business obligations to spend alternate months in Philadelphia and Haverburg. By nature a paternal type, he would obviously tend toward leniency in those months he spends away from his family, so he has taken the logical and eminently practical step of establishing families in both localities. The "remarkable" in the film's title refers to Mr. Penny-packer's fecundity. Odd, although we dislike to quibble "staggering" might have been a more descriptive word choice. His offspring in both localities total 17.

The problems come to a head when Mr. Penny-packer's Israeli-ite old father (Charles Coburn), founder of the sausage empire, accidentally falls upon the true facts of his son's peripatetic existence. It shouldn't take the edge off the suspense to reveal that the story comes to a happy, and warmly moral, denouement when it is discovered that Mrs. Penny-packer, Philadelphia division, has been deceased these eight years. The cast, which includes Dorothy McGuire and an incredible profusion of juveniles, performs with spiritfulness. The screenplay, based on Liam O'Brien's stage play, was prepared by Walter Reisch, directed amply by Henry Levin and produced in CinemaScope and color by Charles Brackett. Lun for all.

THE GARDEN

My Uncle (March 12-14) stars Jacques Tati in a winning romp which has already been voted "Best Foreign Film of the Year" by the New York film critics. Tati, who is fondly remembered for his delightful portrayal of Mr. Hulot in "Mr. Hulot's Holiday," is a practitioner of that universal form developed by Charlie Chaplin—satirical slapstick. The plot which serves primarily as a loose framework for Tati's clowning, pokes fun at modern life controlled by mechanical gadgets and social formalities.

The language barrier, though never a real obstacle for comedians of Tati's stamp, is non-existent in this one, since the Garden has chosen to exhibit the dubbed English version of this picture, which was originally released as "Mon Oncle." Technical problems necessitated this, although the management is apparently aware that many film goers prefer to hear the original dialog even if they cannot understand French. The Garden, it seems, has installed a wide, CinemaScope screen and "My Uncle" was filmed on old-fashioned square celluloid. If the subtitled version were shown, it would be necessary to clip off the top of the characters' heads in many scenes. With the dubbed version, it is possible to cut off the bottom. This works out better, the management feels, since most viewers find faces more expressive than feet. But in any language, the pantomime is riotous and the Eastman color is attractive. The film is worthwhile and enjoyable.

IF YOU LIKE TOWN TOPICS, the best way to show your appreciation is to mention it to our advertisers.

He Who Must Die (March 16-21) is so good that one respected New York film critic thinks it mislabeled being named best foreign-language picture of 1958 only because it opened in the big town during the December newspaper strike. Based on the novel, "The Greek Passion," by the late Nikos Kazantzakis, the story is set on the island of Crete during the post-World War I Turkish occupation. It is an allegorical tale concerning the fruitless efforts of a modern-day Jesus to practice the Christian ethic against the will of the local church and government.

Pierre Vanek plays the role of the protagonist, an innkeeper who is rehearsing for the role of Jesus in the town's annual Passion Play and who is thoroughly imbued with the attributes of his prototype. When a band of footloose refugees from a far-off village arrives at the town, the authorities, including the Turkish governor, fear the newcomers will create disorder. To prevent this, they spread the word that the wanderers are afflicted with cholera. The Passion players discover this is a falsehood and attempt to convince the villagers to do unto the strangers as they would have others do unto them. The local priest heads the opposition to this heretical concept.

"He Who Must Die" was directed and co-authored by Jules Dassin, the expatriate American filmmaker who turned out the hair-raising "Rififi" a couple of years ago. He outdoes himself in this one. Cast members include Mr. Vanek, Molina Mercouri and Jean Servais. The film, in black-and-white CinemaScope, forms an editing addition to the string of winners which have been on exhibition at the Garden in recent weeks. Recommended.

sive masterpiece in about two seconds.

Other techniques of reproduction turn out some fine prints. There is an 18th-century cartoon, "Woman on Sofa" by Henri Fuseli — almost modern, that one — or "Two Horses" by Hans Ertel, or Villon's striking "Le Long du Parc" with its vivid pink, violet and lemon quadrangles.

Japanese prints in color on panels of cardboard are quite striking, and there are some splendid Degas water colors and pastels. (Some prints are only two or three of a kind.)

The University Store now has three books of dollar prints to go with some inexpensive frames. They are French Imports, from Braun et Cie., the colors lively and deep, the range of choice wide. Van Gogh, Courbet, by the gross, but also Botticelli, Fra Angelico, El Greco and an early Picasso you don't often find in collections such as this. For $5, you can be a Guggenheim.

Heave it. Diligent gardeners will now get out the pencil and begin to calculate how many square feet in the front yard. It's the same as last year, but where is that garden notebook . . .

It is time, in short, to get the lawn. First you lime, if you need to, and then you fertilize. You do not do both together because lime makes the nitrates in the fertilizer go off into gas.

Wait for a rain or two, to let all the lime soak in. Then use Agri-co's 10-4-1 Turf-BUILDER with urea.

This is an organic fertilizer that gives prolonged feeding over a six-week period. Used now, it will carry you through famously until you spread on a quick, chemical fertilizer next fall.

The know-how for all this comes from John Obal's Garden Market (formerly Rosedale) on Alexander Street. From Mr. Obal, too, comes a new grass seed by Patco, developed at Penn State. You sow this after, or at the same time as, you fertilize.

The new mixture contains 32.24 percent of an improved bluegrass, Delta Kentucky; 28.80 percent of your old friend, Merion blue; 28.40 percent of an improved Paspalum called Pennlawn that is more resistant to drought than other strains. No nurse grasses here. For re-seeding, Mr. Obal says pure mixtures only. The new Patco is $2.50 a pound, and it seeds three times as much space as other seed mixtures because it is finer than most.

Do all this now, the experts say, while there are two or three frosts ahead. The heaving of the ground will work in the seed — it's nature's own rake — and when warm weather comes, you'll have a fat, thick crop of grass to mow, and mow, and mow, and mow . . .

Bomb Scare at PHS

The daily routine at Princeton High School was disrupted for more than an hour Monday afternoon as the result of an anonymous telephone call to police warning them of a "bomb" at Princeton High School.

As a precautionary measure, the 1,500 pupils and 79 faculty and administration members were asked to leave the building while nearly a score of Borough and Township police searched it "from cellar to attic." No trace of a bomb was found and Principal William H. Rhodes termed the call "the work of an obvious crank."

Township Police Chief James Campbell noted that similar practical jokes have disrupted school schedules in other communities. "School authorities scheduled the lost time as make-up periods on Saturdays," he reported, "and the number of bomb scares decreased sharply."

of an independent political club. Leaders of the group include Fred Goldsborough, 96 Einstein Drive; Raymond Holmes, 184 Wither-spoon Street; and Charles C. Wooding, 31 Birch Avenue.

The proposed organization will "pool its votes for candidates who specifically offer its smothering," the statement issued this week declares. "Statistics show that we can elect candidates in this community, and we intend to make the effect of our votes felt." The men planning the club said.

Increased voter registration among the Negro community is one of the organization's aims, and plans also include invitations to candidates to speak to club members before elections. Along these lines, this comment was offered:

"Political parties won't have to provide kegs of beer to get members of the club to come hear candidates speak. We want to listen to them without the thought of free beer distracting our attention. Free beer sometimes brings out a certain element that has no intention of voting, listening or improving community relations."

FITTED FOR ASSAULT

By Township Magistrate. Two cases of assault in the Township have resulted in fines levied by Magistrate Louis Gerber.

In the first, Herbert Bullock, 33, of Lawrenceville was fined $25 and $5 court costs and given a suspended sentence in the Mercer County Workhouse for assault against Robert Williams, 33, of 35 Jackson. Bullock had also signed an assault complaint against Mr. Williams as the result of a fight on Leigh Avenue.

In the second case, Walter Daniels, 21, of Trenton was fined $20 and $5 court costs and given a 30-day suspended workhouse sentence for assault against Pasquale Trent, 44, of 22 Birch. As the result of an argument between the two which took place on the corner of Leigh Avenue and John Street, Mr. Trent lost a tooth and had six stitches taken in his lip at Princeton Hospital.

MOTORIST FINED

In Borough Court, Mrs. Phyllis E. Green, 36, of 299 Edgemoor Road, was fined a total of $37 in Borough Court this week on charges of careless driving and failure to stop before entering a through street.

Magistrate Theodore T. Tanna Jr. imposed fines of $15 on the first count and $12 on the second. Also fined were Lawrence A. Glaw, 25, of Charter Club, $15 for failure to have license in possession, and Edgar Riddick, 10, of 21 Birch Avenue, $12 for driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

"PEEPER" ARRESTED

Fired at Policeman. A 42-year-old "Peeping Tom" suspect, who allegedly used a blank pistol to trade shots with Borough Police Sgt. Peter J. McCrohan, was arrested early Sunday after his escape attempt ended in Princeton Hospital.

The suspect, Frank B. Onley of Philadelphia, was charged with

Plan Ahead

Princeton Township's Planning Board hopes to hold the first public hearing on the new Master Plan on April 20, according to Ralph Mason, Planning Board chairman. Printed summaries of the Master Plan will be available at Township Hall about April 1 so that Township residents may study the proposals before the hearing date.

The completed plan will not include recommendations from the Multiple Dwelling committee. That committee is being enlarged to include specialists, such as architects, whose professional advice is required before the committee can make its final recommendations. The enlarged committee, whose new members will be named shortly, is expected to complete its studies by summer.

assault and battery. He was released in $200 bail for arraignment Monday on the charge. On a separate careless driving charge in the Township, he was released in $50 bail pending arraignment Tuesday.

Onley was first arrested by Sgt. McCrohan at Princeton University's Cap and Gown Club, where he was found "peeping" into the ladies' room, police said. The sergeant was policing a Junior Prom weekend party at the club in plainclothes.

Sgt. McCrohan said Onley broke away from him and fired several shots with a blank athletic starter pistol as he was walking the suspect to the police call box at Prospect Avenue and Olden Lane. Sgt. McCrohan answered with two warning shots in the air, but did not aim at Onley because of the danger of harming the crowd of undergraduates and their dates on the street.

Onley escaped but was arrested several minutes later on the assault charge at Princeton Hospital after his car smashed into a Township bridge near Kingsboro. He suffered a brain concussion, a possible broken nose and body cuts and was admitted to the hospital under police guard.

In other Prom weekend police business, Francis T. Gautier of Bethlehem, Pa., a Lehigh College student, was charged with malicious injury to property on complaint of Matt Galinka, steward of Cottage Club. According to Mr. Galinka, Gautier did substantial damage to the club's eastroom by wrenching large coat hooks from the plaster wall. The youth was released in $50 bail for trial Monday.

University prosecutors reported to police early Saturday that a $50 raccoon fur coat was stolen from the coat room of Dial Lodge. The theft was discovered by Miss Martha Shapiro of Brooklyn, the owner of the garment, following the club's Friday night party.

THEY HIT THE SKIDS

Wet Roads Cause Trouble. Last Friday's downpour sent cars and trucks careening on slippery pavements. Early in the morning, two empty truck trailers on their way to Philadelphia, ran into trouble on Washington Road just below College. The first truck jack-knifed, the second tried to slow down but couldn't on the slippery road, and ran into the first. Both vehicles were badly damaged. There were no injuries.

Louis Verheydt, Mount Hope, applied his brakes to avoid hitting a dog which was crossing Cherry Hill Road. The car skidded on the wet road and turned over on its side. Mr. Verheydt was not injured.

Trailer Park Fee Attacked

To the Editor of Town Topics: South Brunswick Township has three trailer parks at 150 trailers each legal limit. In South Brunswick, the cost of the license to operate each park is a flat $100 a year. In South River, the cost of the license to operate a park of the same size is $15,000 a year.

In nearby Edison Township (which has five parks), the cost would be even slightly higher. Thus, South Brunswick's three parks contribute $300 annually in license fees, whereas an identical three in South River would contribute $45,000 annually.

This township income is needed, among other things, to pay for the education of the children from these non-taxpaying mobile homes. With the cost of one child's education priced at over $400 a year, consider, then, the value of township income of $300 a year (on three parks) in South Brunswick as compared with $45,000 a year or more (three identical parks) in Edison, South River and elsewhere.

The township of South Brunswick does in truth realize from these license fees only $300. However, having found no reasonable explanation for this give-away, I find it difficult to believe or accept South Brunswick's seeming willingness to sell for $100 a year a license which sells readily in neighboring towns and through out the state for $15,000 a year. Immediate investigation is imperative!

Misunderstanding is rampant. Neighborhood resentment is entirely unnecessary. Simple legislation is all that is needed. No rent raises are required in mobile home villages.

They have always paid their share in a manner directly compared to others in Edison, South River and elsewhere. Only a change in the ordinance governing the license fee for the operator is required.

CIVIC ASSOCIATION TO MEET

At Kendall Park, Citizens of Kendall Park will hold election of officers of the Civic Association at a meeting Monday at 8:30 p.m. at the Cambridge School. The following slate will be presented: president, Kenneth Leonard; vice-president, Charles Stern; secretary, Jo Gorman, and treasurer, Victor Shast.

A prospectus of proposals and considerations for action during the year will be discussed. Of particular interest to residents are a Boy Scout and Cub Scout emergency first aid system; a permanent blood donor system; improvement in telephone and public utilities. The Association will also concern itself with gardening advice to homeowners and the planning of a "Junior Olympics" for children from 9 to 12.

LITTLEBROOK WORKSHOP

On Curriculum Development. Following a successful workshop on the subject "Why Learn?", motivated by learning in home school and community, the PTA of Littlebrook School will hold another similar discussion meeting next Tuesday at 8 in the school auditorium. Special teachers in French, art, music and physical education will participate.

Dr. William Purcell of the Princeton Township schools will speak on plans for curriculum changes to begin next fall, specifically a special program for exceptionally bright children. Also under consideration are accelerated arithmetic programs, foreign language, art and music programs and proposals for science curriculum revision.

PRE-NATAL CLASSES

Introduced by Hospital. The Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology of Princeton Hospital will sponsor a series of pre-natal classes. The course, planned to start March 25, will be held in the evening at the Hospital and will consist of eight two-hour sessions.

Mrs. Phyllis Forman of the Maternity department's nursing staff will conduct the classes. Mrs. Forman has recently attended a three-week Institute in Education for Child Bearing at the Maternity Center in New York.

As well as the discussion group, the Hospital will offer an additional course to be given in eight one-hour meetings of relaxation and exercise classes. Application cards for the classes are available from obstetricians on the Hospital staff, the Director of Nurses and the Hospital Information desk.

THE ARTS AT PRINCETON: Two Princeton students and their Junior Prom dates meditate over what kinds of music they like best. Left to right are Steve Stein, Judy Deich, Ruth Hefter and Sid Lapidus. Sid likes symphonies, which "make me seem like an intellectual," while Steve prefers bawdy ballads. "They have so much real meaning," he says. See below for other viewpoints. (Richards Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: What is your favorite type of music? Why?

Location: University Campus.

Sid Lapidus, Walker Hall, Princeton University student. I like symphonies. They snow people; it makes me seem like an intellectual.

Judy Deich, Passaic, Beaver College student. Show tunes. They're melodic and the words make more sense than other kinds of popular music. If I've seen the show, I can usually picture it all just from listening to the music.

Steve Stein, Walker Hall, Princeton student. Bawdy ballads, because they have so much real meaning. There's a lot of symbolic significance in some of them.

Ruth Hefter, New York City, Beaver College student. Dixieland. It's got good rhythm and it's fun. There's something about that beat!

David Driver, Little Hall, Princeton student. I prefer classical music to popular, usually, because it's more interesting. I prefer 18th century classical music. To me, the work of Bach and Mozart form the highest expression of classical music.

Ellie Lipow, New York City, Evander Childs High School student. Mostly show music and old standards. I like this type of music because I sort of have ideas about going into it myself. If I enjoy a show, I like to keep hearing the music.

Clark Gosser, Little Hall, Princeton student, composer for Triangle Club. Music of the present-day musical theater. First of all, I'm interested in going into it professionally. It offers a variety of musical types and it's a place where the writer can have as much freedom as he wants, can go from jazz to classical to ballet — Cole Porter to Leonard Bernstein. Also, it has lyrics whereas rock and roll has a word or two words.

Linda Loring, Lexington, Mass., Hood College student. I like phonies. To me they're a deeper thing than something like rock and roll or even semi-classical music. There's something universal about them that anyone can understand.

Dolores Hairstylist

230 Nassau Street
Closed Mondays
WA 4-5667 for Appointment

John Gartner, Dod Hall, Princeton student. Jazz, because it fills a need in my life. My favorite kind of jazz is swing. Progressive jazz, to me, is representative of the Stan Kenton era, which is nowhere.

Hazel Taub, Brooklyn, Brooklyn College student. My favorite kind of music is classical. I enjoy it because it seems to have more meaning than other kinds of music. It expresses more.

Steve Garrett, Dod Hall, Princeton student. My primary standard in judging music is, "Does it give me esthetic satisfaction?" Among classical composers, I like the Russian composers — Rimsky - Korsakov, Tchaikowsky, Rachmaninoff and Borodin — as well as some opera and light opera. I think that opera is one of the most expressive musical forms. I also like some jazz, mostly Dixieland.

Patricia Grocer, New York City, Bennington College student. My tastes are pretty varied. I like classical, semi-classical, jazz, Frank Sinatra and folk music. They each create a different mood, and what I listen to depends on my mood.

Paul Woods, Little Hall, Princeton student. The only music is chamber music, the climax of which is Bela Bartok. His predecessors are solely — and these are the only ones who count — Haydn, Mozart and Beethoven. No, I am not related to the modern jazz saxophonist of the same name.

This is the thought behind the formation of a Newcomers Club sponsored by the YWCA. Planning for the group is in the hands of women also new residents who have been active in similar organizations.

Mrs. Howard B. Waxwood, YWCA Adult Program Director, urges women who have lived in Princeton less than two years to attend the first meeting in the "Y" Lounge next Wednesday, from 1 to 2:30. There is no charge for the tea, and nursery care will be supplied for children.

Also participating in the program will be Mrs. P. T. Bortell, Jr., formerly on the Board of the Westfield Newcomers Club, and Mrs. Elizabeth S. Sargent, Executive Director of the Princeton YWCA.

...to bring you the world's best telephone service

Your calls go through so automatically these days—it's easy to forget how much good service depends on people, skills and hard work.

The telephone lineman is, of course, a familiar sight. But the diver, who helps lay underwater cable, represents one of the many other "outside" skills which are needed to build a better telephone system. He is one of the many New Jersey people who are hired by New Jersey Bell for such specialized work.

Behind the scenes at New Jersey Bell 25,500 telephone men and women work at hundreds of different jobs to keep service fast, reliable and plentiful. In this electronic day and age, more than ever, good service depends on their abilities and hard work.

NEW JERSEY BELL

TURNING THE CLOCK BACK 22 YEARS: When the old Nassau Inn was demolished in 1937, its Palmer Square successor was named the Nassau Tavern. Now, seeking to indicate to out-of-town visitors that it is in every sense a hotel and not a "tavern," the original name has been re-adopted.

FOR PAINT RESEARCH

New Laboratory Planned. The National Lead Company has entered negotiations for the purchase of a 250-acre tract near Hightstown to be used for research. National Lead makes paint, pigments and fabricated metals.

The site, on Wyckoff Mill Road near Route 33, is part of the farm owned by the Charles D. Probus estate. About 12 miles from Princeton, it was chosen by the company because of its nearness to Princeton and the Turnpike.

Officials of National Lead have not revealed their plans for the use of the site. Members of the Hightstown Chamber of Commerce and the Planning Board have indicated that the new enterprise will be welcome in Hightstown.

According to company spokesmen, the new center might employ about 200 persons, with the possibility of more in the future. National Lead has about 100 plants, with laboratories attached to some of them. It is possible that a Brooklyn laboratory for the study of paint and metals may be closed and its employees transferred to Hightstown.

HOWE OFFICE EXPANDS

To handle Life Insurance. Walter B. Howe, Inc., 94 Nassau Street, in the general insurance business in Princeton for 72 years, has expanded facilities to include life insurance.

William J. Dettmar, assistant treasurer of the corporation, will handle the new department. Mr. Dettmar, a licensed agent for Manhattan Life Insurance Co., and Provident Mutual Life, has announced coverage including sickness and accident protection, annuities, group insurance, group pensions, estate planning and a business insurance.

Mrs. Lillian M. Goeller and Joseph Goeller have joined the real estate department of the firm as salesmen.

NEW GALLERY DIRECTOR

Barnard Succeeds Latham. New director of The Little Gallery on Palmer Square is Walter D. Barnard selected to succeed Larom E. Munson. Mr. Barnard, class of 1956 at Princeton, has been with the Gallery since January. He is an artist in his spare time and was editor of the humor magazine, "The Tiger", while in college. His wife is librarian at Miss Fine's School. Mr. Munson, son of Emerson Munson who founded The Little Gallery in 1926 at the time of the completion of Palmer Square, has been in Princeton for eight years. He is returning to New

Here's Proof

A good stiff drink is not as stiff as it was before Prohibition, or even 10 years ago. Liquor stores throughout the country and, behind them the distillers, have found that lower-proof whiskeys sell better than the 100-proof variety and a fast but sober check of Princeton liquor stores shows that the national trend is a local trend, too.

It's the 86-proof whiskey that sells today. The owner of one liquor store said, "Sure—it's lighter you can drink more and people like to drink a lot. After all, you want to be still in your feet after your last highball."

Another Princeton store reports that its own finest 100-proof bourbon languishes on the shelf while the 86-proof bottles sell like potato chips. Princeton is, of course, a bourbon and Scotch town, a statement backed by fact and notwithstanding the dull roar of opposition traceable to martini drinkers.

Haven't to assume management of Munson Gallery, Inc., celebrating its 100th anniversary next year.

A branch of the Little Gallery started in 1955 in Chatham, Mass., will continue to be under Mr. Munson's direction. Mr. and Mrs. Munson and their children will spend three months in Spain before moving to New Haven.

PBA PLANS DANCE

Annual Party in April. The Princeton Business Association will hold its second annual spring dinner dance Saturday, April 4, at the Nassau Inn. Members and their guests are invited to attend.

The president's annual report and election of officers will be held during a short business session. Chairman of the dinner dance is Merrill Zinder, assisted by John Yeoman, Murray Abelson, Ted Reed and R. L. Lenhart. Tickets at $5 per person are available at the P.B.A. offices or from committee members.

BUSINESS NOTES

New Moves. Princessville Realty Corporation, formerly on Alexander Street across from the Princeton Inn, has moved to larger quarters in the First National Bank Building.

Lenhart and Company has been appointed advertising and sales promotion agency by A. Stierli and Son, Inc. of Hattysburg, Pa. The Stierli firm makes brooms. Turner Stephens, Jr., of the Laundromat Center, Leigh Avenue, has become a member of the American Institute of Laundering. He attended the recent Institute convention in Atlantic City. John Archer of the University Cleaners also attended.

WINTER SEASON ENDS
Team's Average Move Upward
The three-month stretch of winter sports activity that came to an end Saturday saw Princeton's over-all won-lost average improved over the previous season, but it took the freshmen's and junior varsity entries to accomplish it.

Tiger teams in seven sports were victorious at a .558 clip, 23 percentage points better than a year ago. However, Princeton varsity were only under the break-even point of .500 for the third straight winter but dropped from .465 last season to .460 for the campaign just ended.

One individual championship and one team title came the Tigers' way. Most Princetonians had their eyes on New Haven last weekend, where Dartmouth's one-point, last-second triumph removed the Ivy crown from Princeton's grasp. In Dillon Gynn, however, sophomore Steve Vehsage won the national intercollegiate squash championship and led Princeton to the team title over Yale and 11 other entries. The Tigers just missed in basketball and finished in a tie with Yale for the Ivy title in fencing. These sports—squash, basketball and fencing—were the only ones in which Princeton could do better than break even.

VICTORY VANISHES
In Last Three Seconds. With two minutes and ten seconds left Princeton had a 66-61 lead over Dartmouth at New Haven Saturday and it was difficult to see how the Tigers could lose. What happened should always serve as hope for an apparently beaten team that knows the clock is running out on it.

The Indians applied sufficient pressure so that it eventually became just a bit more than the Tigers could withstand. When they had a chance to add to their lead, they missed easy baskets, preferred to freeze rather than shoot from close range and failed to convert on as many as four potential free throws.

In less than two minutes, Dartmouth made four field goals, none of them strongly contested by Princeton on the theory that a possible three-point play was worse than a sure two. Finally, when the harried Princetonians gave Dartmouth possession with three seconds left by stepping out of bounds while battling for a pass, Rudy LaRusso sank his winning layup with no one near him. Earlier in the contest, Dartmouth had seemingly broken it wide open by rolling to a 24-7 lead midway through the first half. The Tigers staged a great comeback, cutting the margin to five (38-33) by half-time and eventually taking the lead with just under six minutes to go.

Because the Ivy title and an NCAA play-off berth were at stake, the final three minutes of the game will be relayed in the minds of the losing Princetonians for a long time to come. There were a half-dozen possibilities for nailing down the triumph, and every one of them was missed. Regrets of this sort are far stronger than those felt when a rally just falls short of victory.

The contest was the second one-point decision in which the Tigers were involved during the week. A 61-60 victory over Penn at Philadelphia on Wednesday sent them into the play-off, but it was not achieved until they had overcome a six-point Quaker lead built up in the second half.

The score was tied at 60-60 with a minute to go, and after Carl Belz had made one of two free throws, Penn had two shots at a field goal that would have won the game. The Quakers, however, could not match Dartmouth's final surge.

The final record of 10-5 on the season was still the best since the Tigers won the championship in 1932-27 years ago—finishing 19 and 5. The mark of 13-1 at the end of the regular Ivy season was the best won-lost percentage save for Columbia's 1,600 of 1932 in the last 15 years, but this winter it was good enough only for a tie. And that, in the

TWO ON ALL-IVY TEAM
Carl Belz, Brangan Picked. Unanimous selection of Captain Carl Belz and Jim Brangan to the 1959 all-Ivy basketball team was announced this week. Chuck Kaufman and Rudy LaRusso of Dartmouth and Yale's Larry Downs rounded out the first team. Princeton's Joe Burns was named to the second quintet, while Art Klein received honorable mention. The Tigers set a league record when these four and Herm Belz started all 14 Ivy contests this season.

Looking ahead, there is little doubt that Dartmouth will be favored to win its third straight title next year. The Indians lose only LaRusso from their starting five and have a better bench than any other team in the circuit. Princeton will have only Brangan back from its five starters and has a major rebuilding job ahead of it.

MCBRIDE SETS RECORD
Breaks Tiger Scoring Mark. A tremendous four-goal performance against Dartmouth Saturday gave Junior John McBride the honor of breaking Princeton's modern scoring record in hockey. To the quartet of goals he shoved into the Indians' cage the eye-catching Andover alumnus added an assist and finished the season with 27 goals and 17 assists for 44 points. This breaks by four the record held by Bill Galt '53. McBride's return next season on Ice should with play-maker Pete Cook, who got five assists Saturday, will give the Tigers solid scoring punch. If better luck in the availability of key personnel makes Princeton defense possible, move upwards to a sizeable degree.

Dartmouth's champion sextet dominated the first part of Saturday's contest, moving out to a 5-0 lead by the midway mark in the second period. Thereafter, the Tigers made it close, narrowing the gap to 5-3 before the round ended and eventually coming as close as 6-5.

Earlier in the week, a trip to Cambridge had resulted in a 5-1 defeat at Harvard's hands. The Crimson broke away from a 1-1 tie with two goals in the second frame and another pair in the third.

Princeton finished fifth in the six-team league, behind Dartmouth, Harvard, Yale and Brown ahead of Cornell. The Indians went 10 to 30 and became the first team in 13 seasons to win all its league games.

FOU SIXTEEN WINS, 5-1
Box 11 Mark for Season. A 5-1 victory over the Washburn Juniors at Philadelphia last week brought the hockey season to a successful finish for Princeton Country Day School. Charlie Stuart, moved up to the line from his defense position, paced the Blue and White attack with two goals, while others were scored by Captain Steve Cook, Nick Hare and Bill Smoyer. —Continued on Page 19

CAPPY CAPPON Tiger Basketball Coach

Offsetting the disappointment that followed last Saturday's one-point defeat by Dartmouth in the Ivy basketball playoff are a series of interesting statistics. Colder in nature than the frenzied excitement that accompanies the actual winning of a championship, they nonetheless reveal how much has been accomplished in basketball at Princeton during the 22-year "Cappone regime."

Although Dartmouth is frequently considered to be the team that dominates Ivy play, by winning last weekend the Indians merely matched the number of titles that Princeton has won in the past decade. Each has now captured three (to no more than one for any other entry) — but no college can match the Tigers' record of having finished out of first division only twice in the last ten years.

Best proof of all of how much Cappon accomplishes each season in Dillon Gym is that Princeton almost invariably finishes higher in the standings than it had been expected to when the season began. Cappon's 1950 champions—iron men in the same sense that his most recent quintet has been—won after staging a series of half-raising one and two-point upsets. Yale had been expected to repeat.

Two years later, Cap did it again—bringing an underdog entry roaring down the stretch past Penn and Columbia, both chosen at the season's outset to finish ahead of the Orange and Black. In 1954, the Tigers took favored Cornell into a playoff, only to lose by two points in the final five seconds. A year later, they bounced back from this disappointment by finishing in a three-way tie with Penn and Columbia and going on to head the favored Lions the most one-sided defeat on record in an Ivy playoff contest.

The story this past winter was cut from the same pattern. Defending champion Dartmouth had lost only one starting player from the quintet that had won the 1958 title two weeks before the season ended. The Indians were rated a "shoo-in." Cornell was picked to give them the strongest run for their money and Princeton was labelled nothing more than a good first-division bet.

It could be that if Yale's Larry Downs had not broken his hand in a December practice session, Princeton would have won the title outright last Wednesday when it defeated Penn at Philadelphia. Without Downs, the Elli came within a point of beating Dartmouth when the two met at New Haven; when he returned, he averaged 23 points per game and Princeton was the only team to beat Yale with Downs on the Elli's own floor.

Cappon will go into the 1960 season looking to vastly reserves and upcoming sophomores for four starting players—the biggest rebuilding problem he has known in ten years.

Princeton will go into the season tabbed as a question mark, but there's no doubt whatsoever that Cappon will direct the Tigers to a higher finish than his fellow coaches and other basketball experts in the east feel is at all logical.

Country Day's season marked by a total of 45 goals scored against its eight opponents, while it held the teams it played to a total of seven. The lone defeat (1-0) came at the hands of the Taft School Juniors when PCD played two games within six hours on a New England tour.

Three victories were scored over Lawrenceville's Juniors — 5-1, 5-0 and 7-1. Other victims were the Kent School Juniors, 7-1; New Canaan Country Day, 3-1; Hill School Juniors, 9-1; and Wissahickon. In the last four years, PCD hockey teams have won 23 out of the 34 games they have played.

ALL-STAR DEADLOCK

In Pee Wee Hockey, Princeton and North Jersey fought to a 2-2 deadlock in the Pee Wee All-Star Hockey Game at Baker Rink Saturday. Neither sextet was able to break the tie in the five-minute sudden-death overtime period.

Tommy Chubet and Dave Tibbals tallied for Princeton. Gibby Kane was credited with an assist on Chubet's goal. North Jersey's goals, both unassisted, were scored by Dave McGruther and Steve Whitley.

In the Pee Wee League championships, the Maple Leafs blanked the Canadians, 5-0. Freddy Erdman, 6 years old, paced the victors with one goal and an assist. Other Maple Leaf markers were posted by Chris Gordon and Hank Tomlinson.

Tommy Chubet turned the hat trick and Gibby Kane added two goals to spark the Red Wings to a 5-1 triumph over the Rangers in the consolation round. Kane was credited with two assists, while Chubet and Kevin Kennedy had one apiece. Gene Erdman netted the Rangers' lone tally.

pace St. Paul's to a breezy 67-44 trouncing of St. Hedwig's and added another 14 as the Cavaliers edged St. Mary's of Bordentown, 35-33. The St. Hedwig's tilt was St. Paul's ball game all the way. The Cavaliers, never in danger, moved out to a 31-41 half-time margin and lengthened it thereafter. Ed Muegg was second high scorer for St. Paul's with 12.

The picture was different in the second game, as St. Mary's took an early 10-6 lead. Megna's ball handling and Corvino's sharp-shooting kept St. Paul's in the game, however, and a foul shot by Kerry Klink with 30 seconds to go sewed it up for the home team. The Cavaliers currently have a 7-10 slate.

MIDGET REGISTRATION SET
Meeting at "Y" Saturday. The Princeton YMCA's 10th annual Midget Baseball program will be organized during a meeting at the "Y" on Saturday at 2-15. Boys from 8 to 12 are invited.

League contracts have already been mailed to all boys who took part in Midget play last year, and additional contracts are being distributed through the schools and at the "Y." The deadline for filing is Monday.

Team organization and practice sessions will be conducted during April, with official play beginning April 27. The annual All-Star Game is scheduled for Memorial Day and the Midget World Series will wind up the season late in June.

B. E. Bergesen Jr., YMCA baseball commissioner, emphasized that all boys who show interest, regardless of their baseball ability, will be accepted and will play regularly. The YMCA feels the 9 to 12 age group should be learning skills in preparation for more competitive programs later. Bergesen urged fathers to attend the Saturday organizational meeting with their sons.

BOWLING NOTES
